The Davis Clinic Announces Alliance with ChaseHealthAdvance and BLIS Insurance Services

HOUSTON, TX – (BUSINESSWIRE) – September 29, 2010 – The Davis Clinic, headquartered in Houston, Texas, announced today that it will begin offering a comprehensive patient financing program through an alliance with ChaseHealthAdvance and BLIS Insurance Services. The program, called BLISPay, specializes in financing bariatric surgery procedures that may be excluded from insurance providers, allowing those in need of treatment improved access to care.

“Unlike other medical financing companies whose financial offerings tend to be quite limited, BLISPay relies heavily on its relationship with ChaseHealthAdvance. With $1.8 trillion in assets, Chase’s financial stability in the marketplace provides far more options to our patients, allowing for more medical loan approvals and, ultimately, improved access to treatment,” stated Kimberly P. Taylor, Marketing & Administrative Director for The Davis Clinic. “It is unfortunate that some employers still do not recognize the efficacy of treatment of morbid obesity via bariatric surgery and offer their employees this valuable benefit. We hope, in time, to change that mindset. In the meanwhile, we are thrilled to be able to offer our patients a solid and robust financial vehicle which will allow them to pay for surgery over time via the BLISPay program.”

In addition to the BLISPay Program, The Davis Clinic offers BLIS Care Complication Protection to its self-pay patients. This means that every surgeon at The Davis Clinic meets strict outcome criteria and offers their self-pay patients a minimum of 60-day complication protection. “While the chances of suffering a complication are quite low in the hands of a BLIS-certified surgeon, we understand that complications can arise from time-to-time. That’s why we offer all of our self-pay patients undergoing adjustable gastric banding, gastric bypass, or sleeve gastrectomy the peace of mind in knowing that should a complication arise, they are financially secure,” stated Ms. Taylor.
